DONORA TROUBLED TO HOUSE AND FEED 1,400 NEWCOMERS

Industrial Activity of U. S. Steel Corporation Produces Problems

MUCH EQUIPMENT ARRIVING

Contracting Companies and Steel Concern Able to Care For Sand, Gravel, Etc., But Finds Itself to Care at Once for Humans.

The industrial movement of the United States Steel corporation which brought to Donora the beginning of a new spelter plant, a transformation in three weeks of a field of 50 acres from an ore dump to a hive of industry and 1,400 men as workers, has produced a housing and boarding condition that may be hard to cope with. Taken unawares and unprepared, Donora has already experienced much difficulty in caring for the newcomers.

The Dravo Construction company of Pittsburg which has the contract for the excavating and the concrete work has between 700 and 800 men at work going night and day to keep ahead of the bricklayers and steel constructionists. Officials and employes of the American Bridge company, which will place the steel work, are on hand to the number of 400 and are getting tools and equipment in shape for the first arrival of steel. Over 300 men and officials of the American Steel and Wire company which is the Donora name for the United States Steel corporation is on the ground, bringing the total up to 1,400.

Train loads of sand, cement, gravel and brick are arriving every day and being disposed of, but men are having the most difficult time of all getting placed. Two hundred additional men are expected to arrive next week.

Ten tents have been directed on the ground to take care of some of the laborers by the Dravo Construction company. A boarding boss is looking for a temporary building in which to house from 200 to 300 men. A resturant is being operated on the grounds to serve lunches, but accommodations are proving entirely insufficient.

Some of 1,400 have found lodging and boarding in Webster, across the river from Donora and many are traveling to and from Charleroi, Mongahela and other points. Some are even traveling daily from Pittsburg out to their work. Donora real estate men are trying to cope with the situation.

NEW LOCK OPENED UP FOR TRAFFIC AT NO. 4

Characterized by the frantic tooting of whistles, the new outer lock at Lock No. 4 was opened up this morning at 11 o'clock for traffic. The U. S. steamer Swan with a tow of two derrick boats and a dregе was the first boat to pass through the lock. It was followed by the U. S. steamer Slackwater, with a tow of one derrick boat. The first boat to be locked other than by the government was the yacht, "Margaret" owned by J. F. Milliken. The new lock is 360 feet "in the clear," which means that there is 360 feet of locking space. As soon as tests of the lock are completed work on the inner lock will be completed.

CALIFORNIA ENJOYING ONE OF ITS GREATEST BUILDING BOOMS

Contracts Aggregating $100,000 Under Way Now—Work Started on New City Hall

California is enjoying a building boom, there being at the present time contracts under way aggregating $100,000. The present boom is one of the greatest in the history of California.

In the heart of the town Frank Rosa is erecting a $25,000 business block. This will be one of the largest in the town.

The Charleroi Lumber company is starting work in the construction of the new city hall on Third street across from the postoffice. On Second street Max Avener is erecting a new residence for himself that will be one of the most palatial in the Monongahela valley. It is a replica of the White House at Washington.

FAYETTE CITY MINE TO START

Notices Posted by the Pittsburg Coal Company—Marianna Prospects Bright

MINES TO START AUGUST 15

Notices were posted within the last two days at the Fayette City mine of the Pittsburg Coal company that the mine would resume Monday. It will employ from 300 to 400 men at the outset. With the starting of the Fayette City mine, only the Apollo mine in the Fayette City section is idle.

At Marianna, it is reliably reported that the sale of the Marianna mines to the Union Trust company in Pittsburg will be confirmed within the next few days, and that the mines will be opened up by August 15. It is said that the company operating in the future will be under a new chartered name.

The conditions at Marianna for some time have been very bad. While there has not been as much suffering as there was in the winter months, many are in need of help, and if for any reason the mines should not reopen on August 15, it will again be necessary to have some organized relief for the people.

We are ready for business in our new location at 502 Fallowfield avenue. Watch for the big and correct time. Announcement of grand opening later. Always at your service. H. Porter, Jeweler and optician, 502 Fallowfield avenue. Charleroi, Pa. 39-t1—*

FRIDAY'S MUSIC IS MOST PLEASING YET

Alfred Hiles Bergen Company in Concert at Chautauqua Tent Wins Much Praise---Hon. James G. Stutesman Speaks

What will stand out as the most brilliant musical offering of the entire Charleroi Chautauqua was presented Friday evening by the Alfred Hiles Bergen company at the Chautauqua tent. Consisting of four men who are musicians of unusual ability of unusual ability for the Chautauqua circuit, the company gave a program of the best classical music and presented it in such shape as to make the biggest kind of a hit.

The Bergen company is just a little different from any company that has apeared here so far. They did not attempt any of the so-called popular music of the day, their program including only standard classics, with a few Scotch and Irish songs by Mr. Bergen intermingled.

The first number was "Andante Cantabile," Tchaikovsky, in a trio arrangement for the piano, violin and 'cello. It was well rendered and following this was the Mozart Adagio.

Mr. Dressel for a cello solo rendered Popper's "Dance of the Elves" with such brilliancy that he was recalled, whereupon he played the old, but always welcome Schumann's "Traumerei." In fact this number, encore though it was one of the most enjoyable features of the evening's program.

The most talented and versatile performer of the Bergen company probably is the Russian violinist, Mischa Gluschkin. He played Friday evening a suite of three numbers winning tumultous applause. For his encore number, playing "Ave Marie" by Gounod he made a bigger hit than ever.

Mr. Bergen displayed wonderful vocal ability in his baritone songs. He rendered fully ten songs and pleased the audience wonderfully well.

Of the pianist one newspaper critic writes, "The pianist Charles Lurvey [illegible] accompanist. His rendering of a Chopin nocturne and a waltz in F flat by the same composer made him [illegible]"

The big feature of Friday afternoon was the lecture of Hon. James G. Stutesman on "International Peace." Mr. Stutesman, who was formerly Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary in Bolivia, South America, in his discussion presented facts of international law and usages that he had gleaned from experience. He discussed the problems of peace as relating to the relations of the United States to the countries of South America and mentioned the future possibilities of a truly international peace between all nations of the world. Mr. Stutesman was secured for the local Chautauqua through the courtesy of the Carnegie Peace Commission.

Preceding the lecture of the afternoon the Alfred Hiles Bergen company gave a prelude concert that included some big numbers.

This morning at the children's hour Miss Eleanor Stevenson, appearing in costume, told Scandinavian folk-lore stories. Rev. Daugherty discussed the theme, 'The Eyes of the World." This afternoon the Sands' Regimental band, considered one of the best attractions on the Chautauqua circuit is appearing at the tent, and this evening another performance will be given by this band. Tomorrow afternoon a sacred concert will be given by the Haydn quartet and Miss Helen M. Hancock a reader will give some of her readings. Dr. Thomas Barney Thompson, who has been the morning hour lecturer at Monongahela will deliver the sermon, "The Land That God Forgot." At 7 o'clock tomorrow evening vesper services will be conducted and Hon. Charles F. Scott a Kansas congressman will deliver the lecture. "The Martyrdom of Belgium,"

Monongahela Not Counted In Tabulation Just Completed by Clerks

REPUBLICAN ARE NUMEROUS

G. O. P. Wing Includes 16,611—Estimated That With Monongahela in Registration Will Show Republican Strength to be Fully 18,000.

The clerks of the county commissioners have finished totaling the registration and enrollment of the voters of the county from the assessors' books, which were returned on the 22nd day of this month. Included in the various totals are all the voting precincts of the county, outside of Monongahela. The latter municipality is a city of the third class, and the enrollment will be made later, on the days of personal registration.

The figures show that there are in the county outside of Monongahela 30,158 registered voters. Of this number 16,611 are enrolled as Republicans. 6,437 as Democrats, 623 with the Washington party, 1,064 as Socialists 336 as Prohibitionists, and 5,077 expressed no choice. One bore "Bull Moose" party, seven as "Progressives," and two as Independents.

Only those who are enrolled under a party name can participate in the primaries of a designated party for the nomination of candidates at the primaries on September 21. Every qualified voter can however, participate in the nomination of judges for the superior court and also for the court of common pleas of Washington county. In other words, 30,000 or more voters are qualified to vote for judge.

It is believed that with the registration and enrollment of Monongahela added, that the total registration will exceed 32,000, the largest in the history of the county. It is estimated, however from former experiences, that not more than 60 percent of the registered vote will be cast at the primaries, although some of the political leaders believe that, with the large number of candidates in the field for county office, and all the local, precinct, borough and township offices to be filled, a much larger vote will be out at the primaries this year than ever before.

It is estimated that the Republican enrollment, with Monongahela in, will total more than 18,000, with every little change in the others. The enrollment of 623 in the Washington party shows that just about two-thirds of those who were last year enrolled in this party have gone back to the Republican party.

THE WORLD DOES MOVE.

Consider how things jump along in the old world. Within the memory of living men these things have happened, says the Toledo News-Bee:

The telegraph was invented and is one of our great business enterprises.

Over the telephone wire we do business and gossip.

We travel by the engineless, horseless trolley car.

The murderer, the submarine, is terrorizing the world.

We have guns that shoot 25 miles and smash the bull's-eye.

The wonder, the aeroplane, buzzes over peaceful lands and battle fields.

Great dirigible balloons soar in the skies.

We telegraph without wires, and soon will talk long distances that way.

The auto whizzes here and there, a fine convenience and useful, so long as sensible persons guide it.

Our great west has been developed.

We have learned that Alaska is no uninhabitable country, but will prove a great mining, industrial and farming district.

Soon the Phillipines will become a republic.

China, sleeping these past 5,000 years has become a republic.

Japan, modernized, is become almost as wicked and grasping as the rest of civilization.

Cuba a democracy.

Mexico trying to swim out of the whirlpool of trouble into still waters.

Religious liberty almost everywhere.

Many thinkers think that the present great war will result finally in a long step forward in the establishment of the rights of common men.

The world fights and argues, chokes and gasps, smiles and weeps, but it does move.

WALTZ COMING BACK

The old-time waltz, two-step, schottische and polka are going to play a return date soon, and, according to a California dancing college dean, it will be a lasting one. This particular professor of the terpsichorean art has naught to say in favor of what has been termed modern dancing, but he speaks in glowing terms of the old-time waltz, two-step, etc. says an exchange. He says the social need of the day is an irreproachable dance, so simple that it can be learned with little practice and yet having sufficient variety to appeal generally to those who dance and those who want to learn. This dancing master declines to teach what he terms syncopated abominations, mostly he admits, because he can well afford to do so. He says much, not all, of the present-day dancing is little more than walking matches, with a wiggle or two thrown in for good measure, and that fat persons, who are too lazy or have not the ability to be artistic and graceful, take to them.

The professor declares that the waltz, the two-step, the polka and the schottische compose the backbone of dancing and that at last we are coming back to them. We must admit that the old-time waltz looks more like a dance and requires more grace than most of the so-called modern dancing, and we hope to soon see the day when they are billed to return.

HIS DEATH A LESSON

Becker's death was dramatic, as all deaths in the death chair are. But it was not the awful drama enacted, nor the strange chord of human sympathy touched that really mattered.

His suffering taught all the world a lesson. It taught over again the insufficiency of man who would attempt to mould the destiny of the many for the satisfaction of the few. It taught that criminality must not [illegible]. Becker was made to suffer for his own sins, as well as the performances of the system which he helped to make and maintain. When he went to the chair, the system traveled with him, similarly condemned. Becker was made to die that the system might be ended. As one writer said, "Becker was made to give up his life for a cause, to spread civilization, to stamp out disease, to teach a great truth."

The great man returned to his native city after an absence of nine years. Ten thousand people turned out to greet him, crying "Welcome home." Most of them were women and young girls. No president ever received such a reception. A hundred automobiles filled with crazed enthusiasts, raced after his, and when his home was reached the cheering mob surged over the lawn. His picture was taken hundreds of times. Who was he? A great artist? A great scientist? A great inventor? A great general? A great poet? No; he was Pittsburg's favorite murderer—The Philadelphia Ledger.

More than half of the reconstruction work at Lock No. 4 has been done, and that too without the United States congress formally appropriating money for putting it through. The money was provided from the emergency fund, proving that it really doesn't matter by what course an end is reached so it is reached, with the object a good one.

There isn't much doubt but what the Charleroi bathing beach has prevented drownings in the Monongahela in this vicinity this year. Not only this borough, but nearby boroughs have benefitted from the energy and enterprise shown by a few in establishing thebeach. The importance of maintaining the beach and putting it on a firm and substantial basis, if it is not that already, is apparent.

One thing that has helped to make the Charleroi high school the splendid institution it is and the most austere critics can't get around the fact, is the popularity of the athletic work. With a former college athlete engaged as coach the coming season still greater interest in affairs on the hill may be expected.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

This clever parody appeared in a certain paper several years ago. It is equally applicable to the present situation:

"Once upon a midnight dreary, as I pondered weak and weary in a state of August stupor on my quiet chamber floor; while I drowsed there, on the night air, came a voice from out the somewhere, penetrating, silence-breaking, shaking all my chamber floor. 'Twas the Bryan, William Bryan, shaking thus my chamber floor. Talking, talking, evermore. "Bryan", said I, quite emphatic, Poplist or Democratic, whether fate or silver miners sent thee to my chamber floor; dost thou think that I am daunted at the red flag, ever daunted o'er this land by silver haunted? Tell me truly, I implore is there money in it for you? Tell me, tell me, I implore." "Bryan," said I, "think of talking, who through east and west is stalking by the rhetoric that thou lovest, by the talk thou dost adore. Tell this land with parties laden if within that distant Aiden which you promise us, prosperity, like silver, is galore. Will our money be more plenty; do we work eight hours or twenty? Tell us, Bryan, William Bryan, or will hard times then be o'er?" Did he answer? Nevermore. And the Bryan, never weary, through the day and darkness dreary, still is talking, talking nonesense never nation heard before: pour his fallacies out-flowing as he travels, eastward going o'er the waste of western prairies to the wave-washed Jersey shore, in a grand, triumphal progress to the open White House door. Will he enter? Nevermore."

In the August American Magazine Getlett Burgess writing "The Maxims of Japhet" presents the following rules for table manners:

"My son, when thou sittest at meat with a damsel have a care how thou eatest, lest thou offend her.

"For this is the test of love: whatsoever goeth into thy mouth and cometh out again the same shall try her as with fire.

"And of these things shalt thou have a care, of the apple and the orange and the peach and fruits with skins after their kind.

"The cherry and the plum and the olive and the apricot, and fruits with stones after their kind.

"The grape and the raspberry and the watermelon and fruits with seeds after their kind of all these things shall thou have a care.

"And whatsoever hath seeds or skins or stones, that thou spewest out of thy mouth these shall be an abomination unto her, unless she love thee.

Thou shalt not help her on with her wrap whilst thou hast a cigar in thy teeth; it is abomination.

"Neither shalt thou pick thy teeth behind thy napkin: it is abomination of abominations.

"And if thou cuttest thy potato or any vegetable with a knife thou shalt be cast out into utter darkness.

"For she smileth with her lips and sayeth pleasant things: yet doth her eye watch thee and her foot tappeth the floor. It is the end of love."

Luke McLuke Says:

A man isn't such a much. If the possession of a mustache entitled you to a vote some of the women would be voting.

Anyway, an old maid has the consolation of knowing that she was born that way.

The man who marries for money usually gets bunked, and on the other hand, the woman who is married for her money never gets her money's worth.

When father decides to stay home in the evening and rest, mother usually begins telling the children about what a good time she used to have when she was a girl and before she was married. And mother will sigh and say: "I wish I had it to do over again. I'll bet I would stay single." And then father will get mad and slam the door and go up to the Dutchman's place and indignate about the war.

The average man believes that if other men were like him this would be a fine world.

The only time father ever does anything for himself when he is at home is when he and mother have had a battle and are not on speaking terms.

After all, flattery is nothing but hearing some one else recite the nice things we have always believed about ourselves.

THE best Pneumatic Tire is only as strong as its weakest part.

Strengthening its strongest parts is as useless as putting a fifth Wheel on a Wagon.

Yet this is often done to provide "Selling-feature" and "Talking Point."

The weakest part of every Pneumatic Tire is its Walls or Sides, not its Tread,—its Cotton Fabric or "Stocking," not its Rubber "Sole."

No price would be too high to pay for a material that, replacing Cotton in the Walls of Pneumatic Tires, would last as long as the Goodrich Rubber Tread could be made to wear.

Neither Silk, nor Linen, nor any other known Fabric yet discovered is so good, for this purpose, as Cotton,—and choice long-fibred Cotton is the best material that money can buy for Tire Fabric.

• • •

WE use nothing less in Goodrich Tires, and test every foot of it up to 380 lbs. to the Square Inch, before we percolate it with the most adhesive Rubber Compound ever made for this purpose.

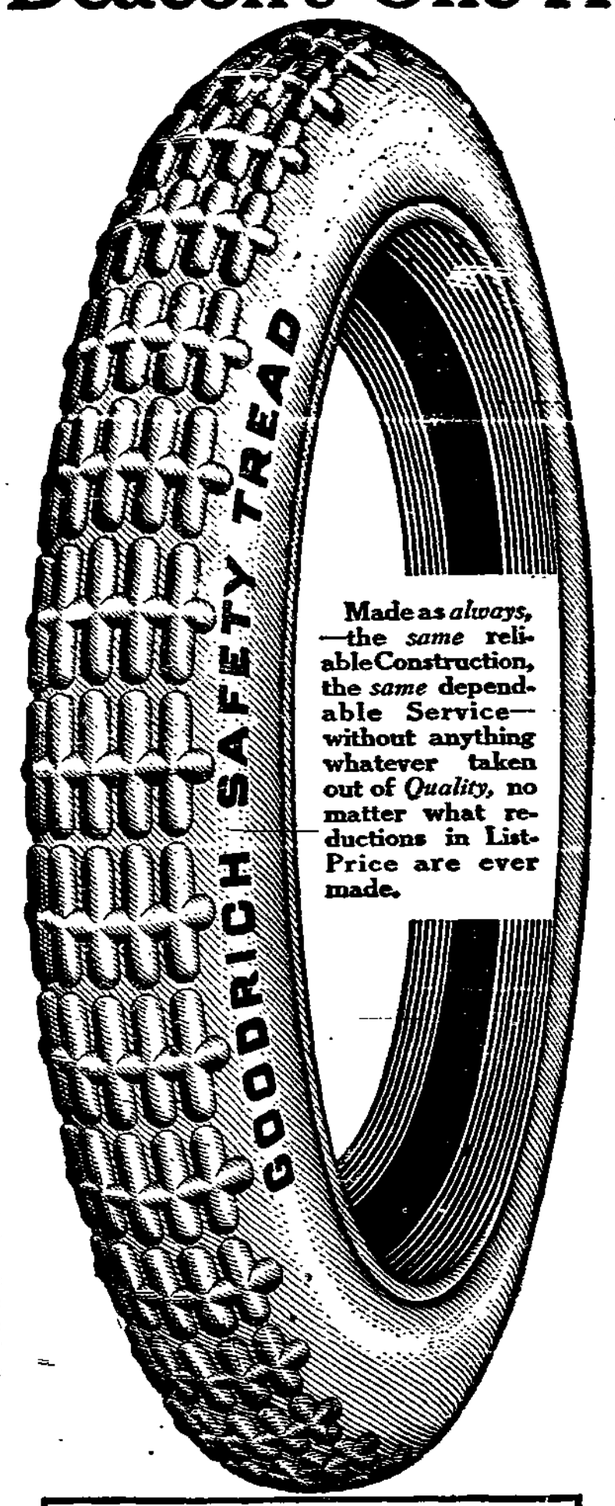

We then shape this rubberized Fabric into Tires, with scrupulous care to have the tension on each square inch of fabric precisely the same,—that tension being controlled by a machine as sensitive as the eye, and infinitely more precise than the handwork of the most skilled Operative could make it.

To do this work we have the most highly-trained men in the Rubber Industry,—trained in the Precision that practice and our 45-year EXPERIENCE make perfect.

• • •

NO Tire Manufacturer, if he received a price of $200 per Tire, could put better Fabric into the Walls of his Tires, use greater care, more sensitively adjusted Tension devices, or more adhesive Rubber between each layer of fabric.

Because, we know the vital importance of THE BEST in this part of the Tire, and use it there unsparingly.

Made as always, —the same reliable Construction, the same dependable Service—without anything whatever taken out of Quality, no matter what reductions in List-Price are ever made.

Only 5% Plus for this Best Non-Skid Tire

Note following comperative prices. "A," "B," "C" and "D" represent four Widely-Sold Non-Skid Tires:

Size	Goodrich Safety Tread	OTHER MAKES
		"A"	"B"	"C"	"D"
30x3	$9.45	$10.55	$10.95	$16.35	$18.10
30x3½	12.20	13.35	14.20	21.70	23.60
32x3½	14.00	15.40	16.30	22.85	25.30
34x4	20.35	22.30	23.80	31.15	33.55
36x4½	28.70	32.15	33.60	41.85	41.40
37x5	33.90	39.80	41.80	49.85	52.05

But,—notwithstanding all this,—the FABRIC is the part of the Tire which goes first.

Because the sides of the Tire do most of the work in running,—bending and stretching a million times an hour, in scores of different directions.

This bending of the sides causes Friction between the layers of Canvas working against each other,—Friction causes Heat—the Heat over-cures and dries out the Rubber Adhesive between layers, which then separate from each other, in spots, the threads weakening or wearing out chafing against each other.

Then you have, in due time, the incipient blow-out, or other form of Tire-Death.

• • •

PUT more layers of Fabric than we do in the walls, to strengthen them, and the friction increases, with faster deterioration of the Rubber through the greater heat engendered.

Put fewer layers, and the walls would not be strong enough to carry the load of the Car.

So there you are—Mr. Tire User!

Why put MORE layers of Fabric in the Walls of the Tire than will properly carry the load, when each additional layer is an additional developer of that FRICTION-HEAT which is to Tires what Old Age is to Man?

• • •

THAT is the reason we build, in the Goodrich Tire, a carefully BALANCED Tire, emulating the famous example of "The Deacon's One-Hoss Shay" in which "the Sills were just as strong as the Thills and the Thills as strong as the floor."

The Maximum Fabric efficiency and THEN,—the rest of the Tire built up to that.

Result,—

—The most RESILIENT Tire that can be made with Fabric Walls,—at the fairest price per Mile of performance.

Why pay more for any Tire?

RECREATION IS THE NEED

Many of the Men of Today Have Forgotten How to Play; Others Never Knew.

Commenting on the statement made recently by a New York Y. M. C. A. physical culture director that of the men he examined many exhibit at forty the symptoms of senile breakdown proper to seventy, the New York press, says, editorially:

The director's advice to these men, "to go somewhere and play" is good. But it would have been better if they had received it and had acted upon it 20 years ago.

Play looks so easy that most people assume it comes naturally. It doesn't. It is a lamentable fact that many persons have forgotten how to play. It is still sadder that others never knew.

Inertia isn't play. Play is initiative. It means setting out deliberately to do something. It means doing it with zest. At its best it should be competitive, for then, to the average man, the zest comes naturally.

Now, it is not easy for a man of forty, say, to walk into a store and buy a set of golf clubs, and then go out on a link and make a show of himself with them. It takes courage for a man of forty to climb aboard a life-size horse and take his chance of sticking there.

No. The time to do these things is in youth. It is then that habits of wholesome, outdoor living should be formed, which will endure so long as haleness is granted one. It is then that the habit of play should be formed, which may change in its manifestations as life wears on, and adapt itself to the limitations of advancing years, yet which will never wear itself out, but rather increase as the requirement of the responsibilities of life gives greater opportunity for its enjoyment.

FRANCIS JOSEPH VERY SPRY

Aged Emperor of Austria Equal to the Situation, Extreme Though It Must Be Admitted.

Francis Molnar, war correspondent in the Carpathians of Az Est, gives an interview with an officer of high rank, who had had an audience of Emperor Francis Joseph a few days previously in Vienna. The officer said:

"I spent half an hour in the working room of his majesty, and found him to be much more lively and agile than at any time during the last years when I saw him. During the audience the emperor walked up and down the room. He was always noted for his excellent memory, but what I saw in regard to this now was really marvelous. His majesty knows the name of the commander of every regiment, and even now is well informed as to changes taking place in commanders of brigades and regiments.

"He is informed every day as to the work being done by all the war material factories. On the table in his study lies an immense map with small flags indicating the position of the fighting forces.

"Cordial relations exist between his majesty and the heir apparent. The emperor speaks highly of the young king speaks very highly of the young heir and is extremely proud and fond of him.

"His medical advisers do not willingly consent to his drives out, though he asks them daily to allow him to visit the wounded soldiers in the hospitals. The few visits he has paid to the hospitals have been small victories over the doctors."

LAND FIGHTING NOT CLEAN

Sailors Objected to Work They Did Not Enjoy That Was a Necessary Part of Warfare Ashore.

The American troops who occupied Vera Cruz last year were the second body of our soldiers to enter the city within a century. When it was besieged in the Mexican war, Capt. Robert E. Lee, afterward the commander in chief of the Confederate army, was ordered to throw up breastworks to defend a battery manned by the jackies of a man-of-war. Lee put the tars into the trenches, and soon had the dirt flying, but the sailors did not labor cheerfully. They resented having to shovel dirt, and their captain remonstrated openly with Lee.

"My men," he said, "do not want mud banks to hide behind; just let them get out and at the enemy."

But Lee would not listen, and the tars sweated away at the shoveling. Presently the Mexicans opened fire at the very point thus protected, and the sailors were glad to seek the shelter of the despised dirt. The ship's captain felt that he owed Lee an apology and made a handsome one.

"Well, Captain Lee," he stammered, "I reckon you were right. I suppose the dirt did save some of my boys from being killed or wounded, but you know we sailors have no use for dirt banks on shipboard. All we want is a clear deck and an open sea. The fact is, captain, I don't like this land fighting, anyway. It isn't clean."—Youth's Companion.

WARS ON CARELESS REMARKS

"They Say" Stories Are Prevented From Spreading by the Trace-It-Back Club.

From Albany, N. Y., is reported a Trace-It-Back club. Some men had been listening to a "they say" story, and one suggested that were the story traced back to its source, not much of it would be left. Another proposed to trace it back and see. The result was so striking, that the men at once formed themselves into a club for the purpose of tracing such things to their source and so preventing much serious mischief from careless and unfounded statements. The club now numbers many members.

A club of that sort could find employment and useful work to do in every community. Members of the Albany club are exceedingly careful now about what they say. Just a hint of doubt about the matter and they appoint someone to investigate. This is sufficient to cause the recall of all that one was not positively sure about. Rash, hasty talk has been the cause of untold misery. It is wise to make no statement without having valid reason for believing it true. It would be no bad plan for everyone to be as careful of his speech as if a Trace-It-Back club were going to investigate his statements.

Rome's Colossal Fish Pond.

The duke of Sermoneta who is acting as president of the committee formed in Rome to promote the independence of Poland, ranks among the greatest landowners in Italy. Fogliano, his estate near the Pontine marshes, extending to 80,000 acres, mainly under grass, for the duke owns vast herds of cattle. The most productive portion of the estate, however, is a lake several miles long and about a mile in breadth, which, from the time of the Roman empire downward, has supplied fish for the market in Rome. Whenever there is a flood by rain in the hills the lake overflows through a narrow channel into the sea. The sea fish find their way through into the lake, and remain to fatten in the fresh water, and then are captured on their return by an ingenious labyrinth constructed of reeds into which they swim. They are of the best kind—chiefly gray mullet.

Stoned Jail; Is Jailed.

In an effort to extricate her son Chester from jail by force, Mrs. Alice Rollins of Tappan, Rockland county, New York, was locked up herself and sentenced to 30 days' imprisonment in that village.

When the jailer refused to liberate her son, Mrs. Rollins gathered rocks and other ammunition and opened fire. She gave a correct imitation of the bombardment of Dixmude and reduced the glass in the jail windows to fragments before she was arrested. The son was committed to the house of refuge for burglary.

Porto Rico Sugar Industry.

The important part played by the sugar industry in the material welfare of Porto Rico is shown by the figures of exports. Out of a total valuation of exports amounting to $43,000,000 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, sugar alone constituted over $20,000,000. This was the lowest sum realized for sugar exports in five years. Under normal conditions sugar constitutes two-thirds the total value of all exports.

Hopeful Mission.

If even one of those 300 commercial travelers who have gone to South America succeeds in making a South American see a United States joke their toil will not have been in vain.—Cleveland Leader.

New Naval Auxiliary.

The German soldier, we are informed, is strictly forbidden in these days of a diminishing food supply, to make private levies upon poultry yards of conquered civil populations. Chicken and geese especially, for their eggs' sake, must be respected. Only one feathered creature, the carrier pigeon, is fair game. He is outside the law because he is under suspicion of being the enemy's messenger.

It was somewhere in northern France that an officer on his rounds came upon Private Beck, just relieved of sentry duty and in the act of plucking a stately goose. To a discreetly worded question as to the corpus delicti the soldier answered without the quiver of an eyelid:

"Your pardon, lieutenant, that there's a carrier goose, sir."

Tabloid Aeroplanes.

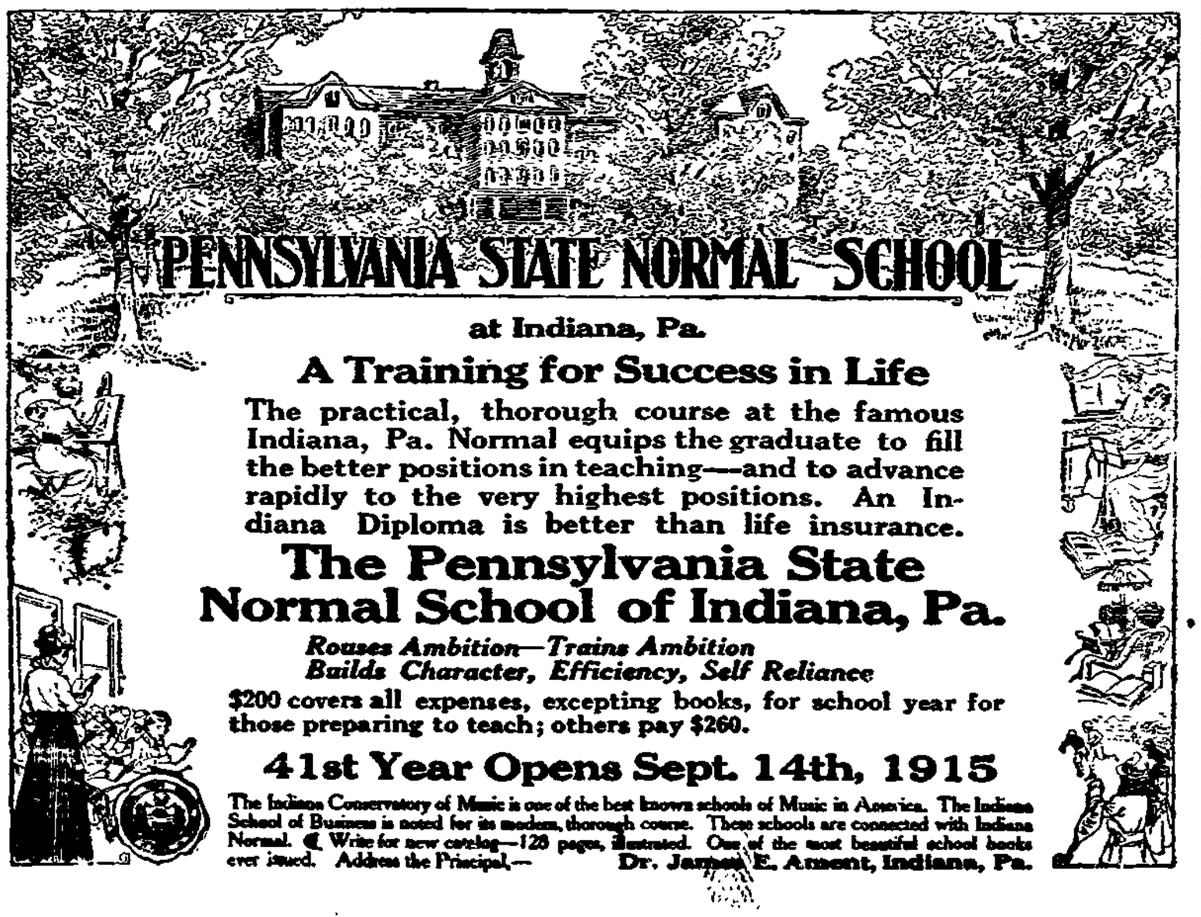

The British reason, quite logically, that the smaller the aeroplane and the faster it can fly the less danger of its being hit by shots fired from earth. So the British airmen favor an unusually small machine, which they call the "tabloid." A very light frame is fitted with an 80-horsepower motor, which will drive the frail machine through the air at the rate of 100 miles an hour. The engine is covered with armor. The aviator seeking to drop a bomb on the enemy approaches his target at a height of 5,000 feet. When straight above it, he turns the nose of his machine straight down and drops at terrific speed. When within 500 feet of the target he drops his bombs as quickly as possible and then shoots skyward at a tremendous pace. —American Boy.

Division of Coal Consumption.

Of the 510,000,000 tons of coal consumed in America in 1914, 158,000,000 tons were used to generate industrial power, 184,000,000 were consumed in our homes and offices for cooking and heating; 97,000,000 were burned in the boilers of locomotives and steamboats, while the remaining 71,000,000 tons were consumed in our coke and gas plants.

Old Tree Dead.

One of the oldest trees in America, at Ravenna Park, Seattle, Wash., is dead. It is a fir tree 180 feet tall with a diameter of 20 feet and a circumference of 58 feet. It is supposed to be eighteen hundred or two thousand years old.

AMONG THE THEATRES

MAJESTIC—CHARLEROI

The past week was one of many good features at the Majestic theatre. As a special attraction on Monday, "Who is Who in Society" was the leading feature. This drama portrayed many incidents of the so call-society life of the present day. "Who Pays?" one of the episodes of a series of pictures that present vital questions of life was shown on Tuesday. Perhaps the featuring picture of the week was "The Sins of Mothers." This was a five part Vitagraph production which was shown Wednesday. Along with the special features of the first part of the week a number of comedies and instructive pictures were shown. The latter part of the week was wholly taken up with variety programs. As a special attraction for Monday Bessie Barriscale who has been presented in all the larger cities, where she scored many successes, will enact the leading role in "Mating" a five part picture of college life.

COYLE—CHARLEROI

An exceptionally good program of motion pictures was presented at the Coyle theatre during the past week. On Monday Theda Bara, who is perhaps one of the most versatile emotional actresses of the motion picture world, was featured in the production of "The Devil's Daughter". In this highly dramatic picture Miss Bara was at her best and for her efforts won many admirers. The ever popular but diminutative movie star, who has been given the name of America's Sweetheart, Mary Pickford, enacted the leading role in "The Dawn of Tomorrow", which was shown at the Coyle Tuesday. Miss Pickford portrayed the wonderful character of the waif of the slum district of London. Wednesday a picture showing the manufacture of Walk-Over shoes was shown under the auspices of the Claybaugh& Milliken shoe firm. A number of other amusing and interesting photo-plays were shown and announcement was made of special features for the coming week.

PALACE—CHARLEROI

Interesting and entertaining motion pictures and a good vaudeville program were features of the past week at the Palace theatre. The first part of the week special motion pictures were shown including "Heart's and Mask's" one of the best dramas that has ever been released on the Alliance program. Another of the leading pictures was "The Seventh Commandment" with Alice Joyce in the stellar role. The vaudeville program was headed by Wilson and Crawford a team of musicians who were featured at the Harris in Pittsburg last week. The scenery and electrical effects used in their part of the program were worthy of special mention. Lottie K. Hamilton a singing comedienne entertained with songs of Old Erin and for her efforts won hearty applause. One of the most amusing parts of the program was the comedy sketch of Parks and Erkinson a team of comedians of the highest class. A number of special features are being announced for the coming weeks.

EASTLAND PICTURES BEING SHOWN TODAY AT THE COYLE

Moving pictures of the Eastland steamship horror at Chicago last Saturday are being shown at the Coyle theatre today, Mr. Coyle being one of the first theatre men in Pennsylvania to get the films. In fact he is getting them before Pittsburg. In the pictures, which were run off this morning for a selected audience, are shown some of the details of the aftermath of the sinking of the huge vessel. The films were taken by the Chicago Tribune. The way in which the bodies were removed from the vessel and carried to carts and the interested crowds hanging about waiting for news were pictured surprisingly well.

NO LONGER THE GAY CAPITAL

Parisians Literally "Walk in Darkness"—Even Lights on Stair cases Are Forbidden.

"In most parts of Paris the streets are so dark after nightfall that you can hardly walk without fear of stumbling over something you cannot see, and as for going upstairs, in many houses the passages are so dark and the staircase is so difficult to climb that you really risk breaking your legs or something. This is put down to the rules of the police, who forbid lights in houses that can guide the aeroplanes, but the landlords no doubt take advantage of this to save money in gas bills. I saw a young lady going," writes an American in Paris. "I suppose home the other evening before dinner, and she had a lantern in her hand—she was not going to fall if she could help it. The sight is a remarkable one and one to remember as a reminiscence of the war—for the Parisians. In the metro, the other evening just about eight o'clock—the hour for ceasing running the trains in many parts of the city—I was on the platform waiting for my train to come up when a lady, dressed in black, modest in bearing and timid, asked me if I could let her have a match. I gave her a box and learned that she was afraid of going upstairs when she reached her home. The tobacco shops are mostly all wine shops, and they have to close at eight o'clock. The grocers close at seven or thereabouts. Hence the lady's dilemma. This is unparalleled in my experience of Paris."

Out of Place.

Margaret Sullivan went into a police station yesterday, began reading the Bible to the lieutenant and was taken to Bellevue for observation of her sanity.—New York Item.

Which recalls Bernard Shaw's account of the Frenchman who was caught saying his prayers in Westminster abbey, and thereupon charged before a magistrate with "brawling in the abbey."

The Coward.

"Has that young man given you any encouragement, daughter?"

"Oh, yes, mother."

"What did he say?"

"He asked what sort of a disposition father had."

Dread Year of the Tiger.

The Year of the Tiger—1914 was so called in the Japanese calendar—forboded calamity in the prophecies of that people. The Japan Chronicle notes that the ancient superstition is confirmed by the European war, beside which the volcanic eruption at Kagoshima was of trifling consequence.

AGED WOMAN IS SHOT ACCIDENTALLY WHILE SITTING ON PORCH

Sitting on the porch of the home of her daughter Mrs. George Weis, on West Main street, Monongahela this morning, Mrs. Katherine Kane, aged 74 years was seriously injured by a stray bullet that came from an unknown source. The leaden missle pierced her left leg and left an ugly wound. It was a 22 calibre bullet. Boys firing a gun along Pigeon creek are generally supposed to have fired the bullet and investigations are being made. Mrs. Kane was removed to the Memorial hospital.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES ARE REPORTED TO HEALTH BOARD

Two cases of typhoid fever, two of scarlet fever one of tuberculosis and five of mumps were reported for the month by Health Officer W. M. Darby to the Board of Health at the meeting of the board Friday night.

SUMMING UP THE EVIDENCE

Many Charleroi People Have Been Called As Witnesses.

Week after week has been published the testimony of Charleroi people—kidney sufferers—backache victims—people who have endured many forms of kidney, bladder or urinary disorders. These witnesses have used Doan's Kidney Pills. All have given their enthusiastic approval. It's the same everywhere. 30,000 American men and women are publicly recommending Doan's—always in the home papers. Isn't it a wonderful, convincing mass of proof? If you are a suffer your verdict must be "Try Doan's first."

Here's one more Charleroi case.

Mrs. Charles Bromwich, 714 Washington avenue, Charleroi says: "I had a severe attack of kidney disease. I suffered from pain across the small of my back and had headaches and a constant, tired feeing. Nothing I took helped me. After using Doan's Kidney Pills a few days, I felt better and I continued until I was permanently cured."
